In 1720 František Adam Trauttmansdorf entrusted the renowned Czech architect F. M. Kaňka with the construction of a chateau corresponding to his social status, that of a prominent member of the aristocracy. The chateau is a typical seat of a nobleman from the height of the Baroque period, decorated by prominent artists such as M. B. Braun, V. V. Reiner and F. A. Scheffler.

In 1868, the Jemniště estate was purchased by Zdeněk, Count of Sternberg, and the Sternberg family inhabited the chateau until 1943. Following the uneasy years of WWII and the ensuing period, the Jemniště chateau returned to the hands of the Sternberg family in 1995.

The tour leads through the interiors in a period style featuring collections of the Sternberg family, and ends in the St. Joseph Chapel. The historical interiors are available for wedding ceremonies, concerts, gala events, birthday parties and other social occasions.

The chateau is surrounded by a picturesque English-style park, offering rare species of trees and plants for admiration at the rockery or on the moor, or an occasion for a walk around several ponds with waterfowl. The chateau coffee house is a suitable resting place where you may enjoy a good cup of tea or coffee.

The chateau is found approximately 50 km south of Prague, and 10 km from Benesov in the direction of Vlašim. The grounds include a parking site for both cars and coaches.

Recent additions to the services offered are night-time tours and winter tours for groups booked in advance.

ORANGE APARTEMENT WITH THE ORIENTAL TOUCH

If the exoticism smells you good, you will be pleased by historical furniture, copper plates, aquarelles of voyages, drapery, painted wash-basin and toilette, Moroccan lamps, Indian mirrors, pillows and fragrances. English caps and by the breakfast, that is served to bed.

OLIVE APARTEMENT WITH THE TOUCH OF SERIOUSNESS

Are you interested in the fashion? Just transfer sheets of luxurious lady's robes of the 19th century recall the seriousness, tact and distinction. The historical furniture combined with modern achievements and all this covered into the cloth of the grape-violet colour and illuminated by "face-cloths" (this deals with the shape of lights, which is very resembling to wash-cloth, turned over a stick). The breakfast is served to bed again.

The museum features an interesting display of traditional rural life. There are in excess of 5,000 exhibits. The display includes the complete furnishings and equipment of the pub "Na Veselce" of Olbramovice, dating back to the latter 19th century, including a cooler from 1850, an early Papin's pressure cooker, a washing machine from 1940, and wicker and wooden sleighs.

Another highly interesting exhibit is the hot-air balloon basket of the first aeronaut of the Austro-Hungarian Empire, Mr Hulka, a native of Votice, where he used to have his joinery shop. Countless items of daily use are supplemented by various machinery, mainly of farming usage, installed in front of the museum, which serves also as a restaurant.

This originally stone stronghold of the noblemen of Janovice, protected by a moat, was gradually converted into a manor house in the Renaissance style, becoming the seat of the Votice branch of the counts of Vrba in the 17th and 18th centuries. The last major reconstruction occurred in the mid 19th century, when the chateau received its current, neo-gothic look.

The chateau has belonged to the National Museum for over 40 years. It offers several permanent displays: "Society in 19th Century Bohemia", presenting life in Bohemia during this period; "Rilke, Kraus and Vrchotovy Janovice", acquainting visitors with the family of the last private owners of the estate, and in particular with the person of Sidonie Nadherná; and the "Czech Bellfoundry" display, guiding visitors through the history of bell making in the Czech lands. A visit to the estate may be concluded in the ancient landscaped park around the chateau.

The brewery of Prince Lobkowicz was founded in 1466. It is located in the neighbourhood of the medieval castle of Vysoký Chlumeč in the beautiful countryside of the southernmost part of Central Bohemia. Ever since its founding, the brewery has produced beer from superior raw materials, with water drawn from its own wells, barley taken from the surrounding fields and, of course, the famous hops sourced from the Žatec region. Open fermentation lends the beer its unique character. The brew matures for several months in the lager cellars, giving the finished product a balanced taste, and achieving a beer that is more than fit for domestic as well as foreign markets.

You are heartily invited to the region of Sedlčany, where you can follow the origins of beer brewing in Vysoký Chlumeč, the beginning of the legend of the Demon beer, the founding of the Vysoký Chlumeč castle and other matters of interest. During its modern history, the brewery has taken to organising and supporting several cultural and social events, such as the Lobkowicz Beer Festival, the Rockfest music festival, the gala ball of the brewery, the Rosa festivities in Sedlčany, and numerous others.

For the coming year, the brewery invites you to take part in field trips to the brewery, horse riding, and organised cultural and social events, or to make use of the tennis courts, the accommodation, the holiday resort on the Vltava River and new biking tracks throughout the region.

May God Bless Us!

The castle of Konopiště was founded at the end of the 13th century, probably by the bishop Tobias of Benešov. It was built as a Gothic fortress copying the design of French castles. First building alterations were ordered by George of Sternberk at the end of the 15th century, and later by Hodějovští of Hodějov in the 17th century. In the 18th century, Vrtbové of Vrtba converted the castle into a Baroque palace. Francis Ferdinand d'Este, who bought it in 1887, had it rebuilt into a grand emperor's residence. In 1990 he married Sophia of Hohenberg and had three children by her. He was very well educated and even travelled around the world. On 28 June 1914 he and his wife were assassinated by a shooting anarchist in Sarajevo. The chateau interiors present collections of F. F. d'Este. The Baroque garden includes the so-called Rose Garden with greenhouses. The chateau, now belonging to the state, offers three varied tour routes, a shooting gallery, and St George Museum. The chateau also offers other services even for the most demanding visitors.

SIGHTSEEING BALLOON FLIGHTS

When do we fly?

We fly all year long, however, only in good climatic conditions, i.e. with no precipitation, a minimum visibility of 5 km, and a wind speed of up to 5 mps. We take off in the morning (within two hours of sunrise) and in the evening (within two hours before sunset). The flight itself takes about an hour, with the pre-flight preparations taking approximately 30 minutes.

Where do we fly?

We usually fly over the picturesque area of the Konopiště chateau, approximately 40 km south of Prague, where our flight base is located. Booking of the full balloon basket entitles you to negotiate any other suitable take-off place.

The balloon flight takes place at altitudes of 0 to 500 metres. We fly downwind, with the wind often changing directions at various altitudes. The pilot steers the balloon by heating up the air inside the balloon and thus changing altitudes with the ensuing direction variations of the flight path. After the landing, the christening and the bestowing of a certificate, you will be transported in our car back to the take-off location.

Ballooning can make for a wonderful and original present and fulfil one's desire to fly, and can even serve as a memorable beginning for a honeymoon. Flying with our pilots is entirely safe, with the take-off and landing reminding one rather of a luxury lift ride. There is no age limit, but children may only take part in the company of their parents.

We offer a small adventure ...
... but may give you even more.

St. Joseph's Adit is one of many underground workings found in the important part of the Jilové gold-bearing district - the vein zone of the Kocour valley. It is also drawn on one of the oldest preserved maps of the Jilové district dating back to 1730. We can thus assume that mining companies operating here in the 18th century made use of this old working which could date back as far as the pre-Hussite period (the 14th century was the greatest mining period with extensive mining activity).

The Museum occupies a historic building called "Coin" located at the lower part of the square in Jilové. Until 1420 the Gothic house was a seat of the mining authority where the royal master of the mine collected taxes from miners - in gold, as well as bought gold for the king. It was from here that the mining industry around Jilové was controlled. The Regional Museum in Jilové u Prahy studies the history and geography of the Prague-West region (lower part of the Sázava basin, central part of the Vltava basin) and specialises in mapping the gold mining in the Czech Republic.

Týnec nad Sázavou has a very long history. Its name itself indicates that at the place where the Týnec Castle is located these days - on a high cliff above the river - there was a fortified settlement in the ancient times, the so-called Týnec ("enclosure" or "fortification" was "Týn" or "Týnec" in old Czech). There is a probable connection between the settlement and an old trade route leading from southern Bohemia through the town of Sázava and along the Kostelec Castle to Prague. Adjacent to a stone rotunda, a religious building, was a secular residential structure, uncovered during a research in 1969. It was just a stilted structure and dated back to the 11th century. A stone Romanesque palace was built on its place at the turn of the 13th century, with a prism defence tower next to the rotunda constructed later on. The palace currently houses the Municipal Museum with an exhibition of earthenware for which Týnec was famous in the period from 1791 to 1866.

The museum in Pyšely was founded in 1937. The main person behind it was Arnošt Chvojka. The collection was greatly varied and grew to as much as a thousand exhibits. The museum was closed in the 1950s and the collection was distributed among other museums in the region. Efforts to re-establish the museum began in the early 1990s. The current permanent display was installed on the second floor of a house owned by the municipality and opened to the public for the first time on 3 November 1996.

The renewed museum has assumed the approach of the original display and concentrates mainly on local history, which serves as a basis for several themes. The museum features the following collections: archaeological - with exhibits documenting primeval and medieval settlements; numismatic, ethnographic; the history of the community with historical records, photographs, and a collection dedicated to a native of Pyšely, the natural scientist and philosopher, professor Emanuel Rádl. The ethnographic collection contains numerous contributions from local people, and also part of the original collection of the museum, returned from a similar institution in Říčany.

The first written reference to the site dates back to 1149 and mentions a convent of the Premonstratensians, founded in the so-called Moon Valley. The Louňovice convent was ruined in 1420 by the Tabor forces that then dominated the whole region. The museum displays findings of the archaeological researching of the convent, installed in the chateau by the National Museum in 1981. During a reconstruction in 1982, a band of sgraffito was uncovered, depicting an interesting view of the biblical theme of The Flood. Above the bossage of the entry portal there is the coat of arms of the archbishops as a reminder of the times when the chateau was in their possession. The chateau is also the birthplace of the music composer Jan Dismas Zelenka (1679 - 1745). The collections also include a display of "The Oldest History of Louňovice pod Blaníkem" and a display dedicated to apiculture.

CHKO BLANÍK

THE LANDSCAPE PRESERVE BLANÍK

The landscape preserve was declared in 1981 in order to protect a typical landscape of Central Bohemia with the dominating legendary hill of Blaník. The backbone of the region is the Blanice River with a fully preserved ecosystem including the watercourse and alluvial plains. The landscape preserve of Blaník is a mosaic of woods, fields and meadows, interspersed with tree-lined roads and other dispersed greenery, interlaced with creeks and ponds of a high scientific value. Constructional development within the region is a highly sensitive matter, as there are numerous historical monuments.

The primeval habitation on Blaník Hill is documented by remnants of a settlement from the Hallstatt-La Tene periods on the summit of the Great Blaník, with some remaining bulwarks. The hill-fort perished and only as late as the 15th century is there a castle mentioned as standing on the hill. The Small Blaník should not go unnoticed, with its masonry building existing on the hill also by the 15th century. The present ruins of the polygonal chapel of St. Mary Magdalene date back to the 18th century.

LOOKOUT TOWER ON THE GREAT BLANÍK

The wooden lookout tower erected on the Great Blaník, at the altitude of 638 metres above sea level, is 29.5 metres high. The tower was built between 1939 and 1941, upon an order from the Czech Tourist Club.

Opening hours of the lookout tower:

The Baroque-style manor house, dominating the village, was built on the place of the former fortress of Oneš Tluksa of Lhotice erected in the 14th century. The manor house belonged to Jan and Jiří Růžek in the 16th century, after whom the manor received its name. The building comprises two wings, with the main two-storey part being nearly perfectly square, and the smaller single-storey rectangular wing having an arcade in the courtyard. A farm building on the southern side supplements the whole compound.

Between the years 1835 and 1844, the manor house was held by František Smetana, father of the music composer Bedřich Smetana. The great composer himself often visited the house and drew inspiration for his works. That is why the collections installed within the manor house and open to public since 1984 are dedicated to the early stages of Smetana's creative life. Other reminders of the composer are his bust above the entrance, made by O. Španiel and J. Gočár in 1924, and two grand pianos, used by Smetana.

The displays installed by the Museum of the Podblanický Region, which acts as a guardian to the manor house, present other giants of the art of music who were active in the region in their times (Jan Dismas Zelenka, Jan Jeník of Bratřice, Josef Leopold Dukát, Zdeněk Fibich, Josef Suk and Richard Wagner, who spent some time in Pravonín).

News from the Region, Event Calendar, Discoveries, Biking, Fishing or Active Sojourns - these are just a few of the sections of the internet pages of the Posázaví region.

The Calendar of cultural, social and entertainment events in the region is furnished with an intelligent search engine, with an option to order regular e-mail notifications of new events. A very special feature of the pages are the sections Biking and Hiking. They are based on a comprehensive database of biking and hiking trails, further specified in individual overviews on the pages. The overviews can be used to organise a whole trip. Simply enter the start and end points of your planned journey and select from the alternatives offered. Another section, which makes this web presentation clearly distinct from others, is the section Active Sojourns. It enables you to prepare or even book a weekend stay or your whole holiday.
